A partner in our Tax Group, Wesley's practice focuses on tax and estate planning. He works primarily with owner-managers, private corporations, trusts and estates and high net worth individuals.

Wesley's experience includes corporate reorganizations and restructurings, purchases and sales of businesses, cross-border structures and transactions, and family succession planning. Wesley also advises clients in their dealings with the Canada Revenue Agency and the Ministry of Finance on income tax and commodity tax matters, including preparing voluntary disclosures and objections to tax assessments.

Wesley understands the importance of adapting solutions to clients' needs. A problem solver and strategic thinker, he takes both a practical and a comprehensive approach to practising law. Keenly interested and truly passionate about the ever-evolving field of tax law, Wesley prides himself on his ability to stay abreast of developments and changes, so that he can continually navigate the arena on behalf of his clients.
