

Litigation

Lawsuits cannot be taken lightly, since large amounts of money, or important, precedent-setting legal principles, or the reputation of a company or an individual may be at stake. The strength and experience of a well-established law firm is vital. While the case may eventually end up in court, experienced trial lawyers can often find a satisfactory solution before that point. If a case proceeds to trial, the courtroom must be familiar territory for the legal team. Their reputation as fearless, thorough litigators must precede them if their client is to succeed.

Litigation was the field of Torkin Manes' founding partners; the firm has gone from strength to strength in building a dynamic, responsive team of advocates to serve every legal need. Torkin Manes' litigators have built stellar reputations based on their ability to absorb the issues quickly, assess the risks and impacts, evaluate the opposition's case, find the compelling arguments, and speedily reach a satisfactory resolution.

With an extensive team of litigators, each with niche experience, Torkin Manes' Litigation Group provides a wide a range of advocacy services.

Commercial Litigation

Torkin Manes' Commercial Litigation Group has a superior reputation for aggressively pursuing our clients' best interests. We begin with a risk assessment, then we develop the right legal and practical strategy for each client's case, ensuring that risks are understood and minimized while chances for success are maximized.

Our senior litigators are recognized leaders in their field and superb mentors for our talented juniors. They prepare to take each and every case to court, but will obtain a negotiated resolution if it achieves the most desirable results for our clients in terms of cost, human investment and time. They have earned the trust and respect not only of our clients, but also of opposing counsel and the judiciary.

The size of our Commercial Litigation Group has allowed us to develop many areas of special expertise in complex matters, from shareholder and partnership disputes, to temporary and permanent injunctions, securities litigation, construction litigation, receiver/manager applications, breach of contract lawsuits, franchise disputes, bank and debtor/creditor litigation, real estate disputes, mortgage enforcement, class actions and commercial arbitrations.

Torkin Manes' Commercial Litigation Group works closely with our Business, Real Estate, Tax, Trusts & Estates and Family Law Groups when their clients' matters involve disputes. We also act for many international clients with business interests in Canada and Canadian clients with business interests elsewhere.
